

Volunteer Opportunities

The John Howard Society of Kingston & District

The John Howard Society of Kingston & District utilizes many dedicated volunteers to ensure the success of its programs, both inside and outside of the penitentiaries in the area. We are a popular choice for many local students, and offer great experience to people interested in Policing, Corrections, Social Work, or any other social justice related field. In addition to direct service roles, we offer volunteer positions that involve the children & families of incarcerated people through our Youth Academic Intervention Program. Our volunteer program offers tremendous experience for people interested in childhood education, policing services, the corrections industry, or human resources/office management roles.

We accommodate student placements in our Intake & Outreach, Institutional Services, Employment Assistance Services, and Youth Academic Intervention Programs, as well as in administrative roles within our offices. Should you have questions about the suitability of our volunteer opportunities to fill the criteria for your student placement, have your placement supervisor contact us, or you may contact us yourself and we can provide information as to the specific job tasks we would have for you.

The time that people generously donate to us and, through our Agency, to the people incarcerated in our jurisdiction has many positive influences in our community, and we are pleased to hear from anyone who would like to volunteer with us, or find out more about the positions available.

Please feel free to contact us with any questions you may have.
